RAT IT • ROD IT • RIDE IT

You may be scratching your head, wondering what the heck is a Rat Rod Bike?

Well, let's start by explaining what it isn't. A Rat Rod Bike is not a trailer queen bike that spends all its life on display and has had thousands of dollars spent to make it look exactly as it did on the showroom floor. You know the kind, still sports the original price tag hanging from the handlebars. Oh no my friend.

We're talking about that bike's ugly cousin.

A Rat Rod Bike is a rider, usually with plenty of imperfections, and most of the time cobbled together using parts from different bikes. Most of the time these bikes are painted flat black or some metal flake color with fat white walls to give it that vintage 50's Hot Rod flare. The beauty of building bikes like this is that it can be done on a budget, you can use them as daily riders, and they look VERY cool!
